

Year 11 revision planner

This booklet is to support you organising your revision.

How to use it in a school week

- ✓ At the start of each week sit down with your parent/carer and plan out your revision for the week.
- ✓ The principle is that every weekday you should be revising or completing homework 2-3 of the allocated 45 minute slots after school.
- ✓ Across a weekend you should be aiming for 5-6 45 minute slots of revision or homework.
- ✓ Plan these sessions, alongside any hobbies/social time onto your weekly planner.
- ✓ Focus on your weakest areas first by using the RAG sheets provided to you by each subject teacher.
- ✓ As you revise in each timeslot, keep the notes in a folder for each subject.
- ✓ Your tutors will review this weekly to evaluate your revision and support you going forward.

How to use in a holiday week

- ✓ At the start of each week sit down with your parent/carer and plan out your revision for the week.
- ✓ The principle is that every day you should be revising or completing homework for 3 or 4 of the allocated 1 hour 30-minute slots.
- ✓ Break these slots into 45-minute halves, focussing on 2 subjects.
- ✓ However, this doesn't have to be every day. Make sure you build in time to relax and enjoy yourself.
- ✓ Plan the sessions, alongside any hobbies/social time onto your weekly planner. Morning sessions result in greater efficiency.
- ✓ Focus on your weakest areas first by using the RAG sheets provided to you by each subject teacher.
- ✓ As you revise in each timeslot, keep the notes in a folder for each subject.
- ✓ Review each week with your parents. Your tutors will review to evaluate your revision and support you going forward.

Methods of revision

- ✓ Remember to break sessions into 45 minutes on each subject.
- ✓ Use the methods suggested by your subject teachers.
- ✓ The PiXL templates provide some excellent ways of 'chunking' information.
- ✓ Don't rely too much on apps or websites for information.
- ✓ Practice questions are key – once you've revised a topic test yourself to apply what you have learnt and then work on weaker areas.
- ✓ Make sure you go over information and break it down into shorter summaries. Use your exercise book, revision guides and textbooks as the main source of information.
- ✓ Ask for help and guidance. Your teachers are experts who want you to do well, use them! Be specific about how they can help you.
